水脈：馬灣龍舟

展覽及活動

來往香港的市區和機場，必須要經過一個名為馬灣的小島。島嶼的西南面，有一條名為汲水門的水道，曾是接通珠江和海洋的歷史航道。從海門到島嶼、稅關到市鎮、島嶼到大陸……本展以「水脈」為題，透過整理馬灣龍舟的歷史，將島嶼的文化地景，呈現公眾眼前。

香港雖然率先將龍舟競渡體育化和國際化，但市民對龍舟的認識，仍局限於是為了紀念屈原。在華南地區，「扒龍舟」往往不限於端午，而是一種用於驅瘟、酬神和標誌地方身份的習俗。「馬灣聯青龍」不單延續漁民龍漁的傳統，更在城市化下重塑島嶼的地方認同。

本展從設計出發，結合實物、圖解和歷史文獻，並透過參式工作坊，拉近龍舟和觀眾、島嶼與城市的距離。觀眾將有機會近距離欣賞龍頭實物，並從另一個角度認識馬灣。

感謝信言設計大使及香港海事博物館支持島嶼研究網絡(香港)從事本地歷史研究工作，並配合博物館職能贊助場地空間，通過本展把這些珍貴資料傳達予公眾。

Marine Arteries: Ma Wan Dragon Boat

Exhibition & Events

To travel between Hong Kong's urban areas and the airport, one must pass through a small island called Ma Wan. On the southwestern side of the island lies the Kap Shui Mun channel, a historic waterway that once connected the Pearl River to the open sea. From sea gate to island, tax station to town, islands to the mainland... This exhibition, titled "Water Arteries," presents Ma Wan's cultural landscape to the public by tracing the history of Ma Wan dragon boats.

While Hong Kong was among the first to turn dragon boat racing into a sport and internationalise it, public understanding of dragon boats often remains limited to commemorating Qu Yuan during the Dragon Boat Festival. In southern China, however, dragon boat racing is not confined to the fifth lunar month; it is a custom used to ward off epidemics, offer thanks to deities, and mark local identity. The "Ma Wan Luen Tsing Dragon" not only continues the traditional practices of fishermen's dragon boats but has also reshaped the island's sense of place amid urbanisation.

This exhibition approaches the subject from a design perspective, combining artefacts, infographics, and historical documents. Through participatory workshops, it bridges the gap between dragon boats and spectators, as well as between the island and the city. Visitors will have the chance to view a real dragon boat head up close and gain a fresh perspective on Ma Wan.

We express our sincere gratitude to the Design Trust Feature Grant and the Hong Kong Maritime Museum for supporting the Island Studies Network (Hong Kong) in carrying out local historical research, and for generously providing venue space in alignment with the museum's mission. Through this exhibition, these precious materials are now being shared with the public.

Island Dialogue: How Fun Is "Paddling the Dragon Boat"?

Date: March 7, 2026 (Sat)

Time: 14:30–16:00

Venue: Blue Ocean Hall

Moderator: Researcher, Island Studies Network (Hong Kong)

Guests: Cross-generational members of Ma Wan Dragonboat

Ma Wan Dragonboat is one of Hong Kong's well-known powerhouse teams. Building on the foundation of the Luen Hop Dragon, it has branched out and flourished. Its current active members include the new generation of fisherfolk descendants, local residents from both on and off the island, and expatriates. They compete in fishermen's dragon boat races as well as open competitions. This talk is a cross-generational conversation, sharing firsthand the joys of "paddling the dragon boat."

Forthcoming

Souvenir

A series of souvenirs related to the exhibition will be launched soon. The souvenirs will feature designs created by the local community and the public based on their impressions of Ma Wan, continuing the diverse and vibrant marine arteries.

Book Launch

《水陸社區研究—馬灣》Water/Land Communities: Ma Wan

The Island Studies Network (Hong Kong) has been conducting in-depth research on Ma Wan's various historical communities and the changes brought by urbanization. Water and Land Community Studies—Ma Wan will be launched during the closing period. Please stay tuned for further announcements.

島嶼研究網絡（香港）

成立於2023年。為會員及大眾提供共享平台，鼓勵地區及跨地區的島嶼友好交換資訊及實作經驗。我們擁抱所有在島嶼發生的學術研究、社會創造、技術實驗和創意實踐等多種途徑的知識生產。立足香港，連結地域內外之友好，開闊島嶼研究新視野。

Founded in 2023, the Network serves as a platform to enable knowledge and practice exchange among members and the public, both regionally and inter-regionally. We embrace all kinds of academic scrutiny, social innovation, technological experiment as well as creative praxis as a way of knowledge production about or via the island. By standing in Hong Kong, a place surrounded by water connecting to the world, the Network will be a bridge for us all to link up with other interested parties, both regionally and inter-regionally, to open up a new horizon for island studies.
