17 November 2025, Hong Kong — Dr Steven Chow and the Hong Kong Maritime Museum present 47 diorama models showcasing significant maritime events from the last century that illustrate the interaction between humans and the sea. Generously supported by the Koo Kau-Ming Charitable Foundation, Lee Wai Lee Foundation Limited and LGT Private Banking, the exhibition will run from 5 December 2025 to 5 January 2026. Students can enjoy free admission upon presenting a valid student ID. Marking the 80th anniversary of the end of World War II, the exhibition includes important moments from the war, serving as both a historical reflection and a reminder of the human sacrifice to establishing peace. Other models relating to post-war activities are closely connected to Dr Chow's personal life and interests. The exhibition includes famous ships and events, such as RMS Titanic and the passenger-liner Queen Elizabeth that became the Hong Kong owned Seawise University. This collection gives visitors the opportunity to experience Dr Chow's passion for model-making with his intricate eye for detail to bring the past to life for a new generation.

On 2 September 1945, Japan officially signed the Instrument of Surrender aboard the USS Missouri , anchored in Tokyo Bay, marking the formal end of World War II.	On 30 August 1945, the British light cruiser HMS Swiftsure and other vessels arrived in Hong Kong, marking the end of the Japanese occupation.	In recent years, China has made remarkable strides in aircraft carrier technology. The Shandong carrier has visited Hong Kong, drawing large crowds of citizens to Victoria Harbour to witness the impressive ship.

SS President Cleveland was the first passenger ship built by the United States after World War II, operating on the San Francisco to East Asia route. Dr Steven Chow once travelled on board this vessel from Hong Kong to San Francisco.	Launched in 2004, the Queen Mary 2 is the flagship of the Cunard Line. At 150,000 tons, she is known for her luxurious accommodations. Queen Elizabeth 2 served from 1967 to 2008. She is a floating hotel in Dubai. Dr Chow has sailed on Queen Mary 2 and had visited Queen Elizabeth 2 in Hong Kong.	RMS Titanic was the largest ocean liner in the world when she set sail in 1912. During her maiden voyage to New York, she struck an iceberg. The Carpathia responded to the distress call, but Titanic ultimately sank in the North Atlantic.

Mr Jeremy Michell, Deputy Director (Curatorial and Education) of the Hong Kong Maritime Museum, said, 'The Museum has always strived to collaborate with different stakeholders to promote maritime culture through diverse themes. In our meetings with Dr Chow, his deep connection with the sea was evident. We hope the public can explore history through these models in a way that differs from traditional exhibitions.'
